Dear little Buffie; her slender pinkies peeping out
from delicate golden sandals.
Oh, those daring scarlet toenails!
doing the Fox-trot all over

late night tinsel town:
her smoothly powdered shoulder, fair against his tuxedo black: always a whiff of le très chic X mas

3 Night.
(as I remember from 1931)
Leaving our Doheny Hall
behind, Buffie tapped
lightly into his white sports car

V in her new leopardskin coat. waving; bye, bye.

Later that night—

(as I imagine it now on 1984)

5/ Buffie tiptoed back upstairs during the wee small hours, still holding her own (in spite of the girl) and still able to

6/ sign in. (in spite of), having left behind quite a broken trail of paw prints.
